

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The tactical ID visor and visor attachment enables individuals, particularly law enforcement personnel to review items held thereon while maintaining a line of sight to a suspect/location. The visor attachment can be made of transparent plastic having clips for holding ID's, vehicle registrations, etc. Lights are provided so that items can be read without interfering with the line of sight of law enforcement personnel. According to another embodiment, the visor can be redesigned to incorporate a lighted portion which would hold the necessary items and still enable law enforcement personnel to obtain information while maintaining their line of sight.